

Leading in Complexity

February 2017 Participant Testimonials

“Expanded my way of thinking. Gave the opportunity to work through issues in a safe and supportive environment. Insightful and engaging.”

Emma Cavaggion

Unit Manager, Department of Planning Transport and Infrastructure (SA)

“The program has helped me put a theoretical framework around the way I see my work and decision making. It has come at the perfect time for me with a change in my role. It has enabled me to reflect on my own practice and learn new ways at looking at and interacting with my new world ?? Thanks!”

Rachel Newrick

Director, Program Governance and Engagement, Office for ICT and Digital Transformation

“Considering what my role is in uncertainty/complex situations, having time out of work to reflect on how I can do things differently to better support my team and me personally. It made me step outside of being cemented in my environment and reflect. The timing of the course was useful, the gongs/chimes and questioning my reality helped me to see things differently”

By far the best investment that any course has given. The concepts have greatly benefited my thinking and hopefully others in my team as I explain/operationalise the content to others. The best leadership training I’ve taken part in.”

De-Anne Marler

Team Leader, Registration and Contract Services, Department for Child Protection

“Discussions around theory. Reflective nature of the course. Applicable to real situations. Opened a range of strategies for dealing with complexity, essentially providing a framework for dealing with complex situations for myself and others.”

Charlotte Bell

Consultant Sexual Health Physician

“It pushed my interpretive skills to look for other causes and solutions to problems and situations – sent me to the balcony.

Insightful – it helped me re-evaluate the way we do things at my work.

Challenging – helped me to understand more about my own biases and heuristics.”

Jon Halpin

Manager, Arts Programs, Carclew

“Theoretical information applied usefully and practically in a work context to solve problems and work more efficiently. Probably the best short course I’ve been through.”

Amelia Traino

Executive Director, SA Mental Health Commission

“Provided guidance to real life solutions and expanded curiosity and reflection. Thoughtful, insightful, high level learning introduced some new concepts and framed some existing ideas with transferable language, diagrams and application.”
